Dear Dr. Barrio;

Enclosed is a manuscript for submission to the journal Counselor Education and Supervision. The title of my work is "Human Sexuality as a Core Component in Counselor Education". I would greatly appreciate you considering it for review to be published. The article is geared towards Counselor Education. This manuscript proposes that human sexuality be included as a core component in counselor education programs. I worked to build the case that human sexuality is a contributing factor to the lives of most people, and therefore it is a reasonable expectation that counselor education programs help train future counselors to be well equipped for serving their clients with human sexuality needs.

With the wide array of human sexuality topics in our world today, this seems like a topic that is ripe and ready to produce fruit that can help professional counselors in training to be well prepared for their work. Also, thank you for considering this manuscript and all the work that you and your reviewers put into producing a valuable journal.

Thanks Again!
